Katana frameless cabinetry is all about simplicity, with a streamlined selection of door styles, woods and finishes. We also made sure the line fits today's love of clean, modern design, with wood-look TSS and High Gloss Laminate options.

TSS (Thermo Structured Surface)

TSS, or Thermo Structured Surface, styles are named for the process of creation: a textured face is thermally fused and heat stamped to a particleboard core. Pretty technical for a product that looks and feels like natural wood or other materials with the easy-care benefits of laminate!

Paint Palette

Painted cabinets are a popular choice for the entire kitchen, or as an accent for the island. The smooth, even surface and wide range of color choices are more desirable to many than visible wood grain.

Alder & Rustic Alder

Shown side-by-side, alder and cherry have very similar grain patterns, although alder tends to have fewer color variations since the heartwood and sapwood are the same color. When exposed to strong sunlight, alder may lighten over time, while cherry will darken.

Wood cabinets are constructed from many pieces of material and may exhibit many, or few, of the variations found in a given species. As a natural product, there is potential for noticeable differences in grain patterns or colors to appear on a single drawer front, or throughout a cabinet.

For a more uniform look, opt for a darker stain, or select an engineered material such as TSS or HG Laminate.

Maple

Known for its strength, consistent look and relatively uniform grain pattern, maple has been used to make furniture in the U.S. since the Colonial days. Grown throughout eastern North America, maple is a stiff, strong wood with a smooth surface. Maple varies in color from nearly white to yellow, pink, light purple and even reddish brown. It will darken to golden yellow or an amber hue with age.

Cherry

It is common to see a variety of grain patterns and colors in a cherry kitchen. Lighter areas of wood were closer to the outside of the tree (sapwood) and the darker areas mark the heartwood, or center of the tree. These color variations may show up on the same board, with a range from off-white to light red or dark, reddish brown.

Rift White Oak for Vista

Rift-cut white oak (RWO) is a dense, strong wood that has long been popular as a building material. The way the wood is cut accentuates the straight, vertical grain and minimizes the loops and arches found in quarter-sawn red oak. RWO is typically light grey to medium brown, with minimal red tones.

Red Oak

Red oak has a very warm appearance, with noticeable red and yellow undertones. Bold grain patterns feature lots of movement and create a slightly raised surface texture and visual interest.

This brochure is intended to show the wide range of finishes and materials available - we don't recommend making a final decision from this book or our website. Neither can truly show the variations in color and texture that are present in all of our products. We suggest ordering a door sample in the material, wood, and finish you're considering - it will also make shopping for tile, countertops, flooring and more much easier!
